Accra, Ghana.

Dear Sir/Madam,

APPLICATION FOR PUPILLAGE

I am writing to express my interest in the pupillage opportunity at Fitch Attorneys. I am a Development Practitioner with nearly a decade of professional experience spanning development communication, policy analysis and advocacy, media and journalism, in addition to my legal training. Having worked on projects and campaigns in Ghana, across West Africa and at the continental level, I have developed strong skills in research, advocacy, stakeholder engagement, communication and analysis which I am eager to bring to, and further develop through, legal practice.

My decision to pursue legal practice has been informed by the increasingly important role of law in the areas in which I have worked, particularly in policy, governance, regulation, and corporate and regional institutions. My professional experience has given me a practical appreciation of how legal and regulatory frameworks shape institutions, businesses, public policy and decision-making. I am therefore particularly motivated to build on this experience through legal practice and to develop into a lawyer capable of combining law, especially commercial and corporate practice and development.

As part of my legal training and the requirements of the Professional Law Course, I have undertaken legal internships that have provided me with practical exposure to legal research, drafting, client engagement and legal procedures. During my internship at the Ghana Broadcasting Corporation, I gained exposure to media and intellectual property law, corporate law, contracts, alternative dispute resolution and legal documentation. This experience strengthened my appreciation of the legal and regulatory issues that arise within public institutions and the media sector.

I also undertook an internship at Ecam Law Consult, where I was exposed to legal research, drafting, client conferences and general legal practice. The experience further developed my attention to detail, professional judgment, teamwork and appreciation of the standards required in legal practice. More importantly, it reinforced my interest in pursuing a career in which I can apply my analytical and professional experience to solving legal problems and providing practical value to clients.

I am particularly attracted to Fitch Attorneys because of the firm's strength in corporate and commercial law and its work with a diverse range of clients, including governments, multilateral institutions, private equity firms, state-owned enterprises and multinational corporations. The firm's cross-border exposure and engagement with complex commercial and institutional matters are especially appealing to me. My experience working across development, policy and advocacy contexts in Ghana and the wider West African region has equipped me with an understanding of stakeholder interests, institutional dynamics and the broader policy environment within which many commercial and regulatory decisions are made.

I believe this multidisciplinary background would enable me make valuable contributions to the team’s work. I would bring to the pupillage a strong work ethic, proven research and communication skills, professional maturity, and a genuine commitment to learning. At the same time, I recognize the importance of the pupillage period as an opportunity to develop the practical judgment, technical competence and professional discipline required of an excellent lawyer, all of which I believe strongly, I can learn from an institution such as Fitch Attorneys.

I would welcome the opportunity to undertake my pupillage at Fitch Attorneys, contribute meaningfully to the firm's practice, and learn from the experience and expertise of its lawyers. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss my application and how my background, skills and competencies align with the firm's practice and the expectations of its pupils.

Yours Sincerely,

SIGNED
